To Whom it May Concern:

My name is Kevin Keo. I am currently a sophomore at Paragon International University majoring in Management of Information Systems. I am writing to express my strong interest in the SEED scholarship provided by Centennial College in Canada. I believe this scholarship is a great chance for me to expand my knowledge from a developed world and experience an entirely different culture from my country.

As a student from a developing country, I believe that the education of a person is a top priority for self-development and for a country to move forward. Therefore, should I be fortunate enough to receive this scholarship, I will determine to bring back the knowledge that I gained from my studies and apply it to help my country move forward to meet its sustainable development goals agenda in 2030, which is a blueprint designed for a better and more sustainable future for all. I am planning to help improve the quality of education in Cambodia by introducing digital literacy to the current education system. This can be done by integrating technology as part of the curriculum which will allow students to learn more on how to access a variety of information on the internet for their lessons. Moreover, when students are able to use the internet properly, they can access volumes of content from all over the world to improve and expand their knowledge. Additionally, this can pave the way for them to gain a broader view of the world which will allow them to have a decent job in the future. And, this can lead to an increase in the human resources of Cambodia, which will help boost the economy and help fight poverty by the year 2030.

The knowledge that I will acquire by studying in Canada can help me tackle this problem, but this alone is only a small part of my ultimate goal, which is to gain exposure to a new environment that will help me widen my world perspective. I believe networking and the new experiences that I will have in Canada can help me to understand the issue clearer which can lead to possible solutions to tackle the quality of education in Cambodia.

The ambition of improving the quality of education in Cambodia by myself is big and hard to accomplish on my own, but after completing my studies I will share my knowledge with my colleagues and friends to make this movement a success. Besides, as an individual who strives for personal growth, this scholarship will provide me with excellent to absorb and manifest my knowledge. I believe that my movement, with the help of other dedicated Cambodians, will have a positive effect on the quality of education in Cambodia thereby meeting the 2030 SDG agenda.

Sincerely,

Kevin Keo
